

Originally from Rüsselsheim, Germany, Franzi began repairing bikes in her early 20s, but as long as she can remember, she's had a passion for taking things apart and fixing them. Looking back, she recognizes the importance of her dad's influence, also a motorcycle lover who supported her in riding and developing mechanical skills. Working as a nurse, she ultimately realized that she wanted to continue working on bikes. As a result, she dedicated two years to earn a motorcycle mechanic degree. Franzi specializes in electrical diagnosis and repairs. "Bikes want to get well, they want to please you," Franzi explains. As a true motorcycle lover, she tries to give equal attention to all of her bikes at the yard. The Bikeyard was established in 1995 and is the leading San Francisco Bay Area resource for used motorcycles, scooters, and parts for Honda, Suzuki, Kawasaki and Yamaha bikes manufactured between the 1970s and early 90s. Franzi also sells used parts world-wide. To contact the Bikeyard, visit www.bikeyardSF.com. Also check out her bay store bikeyardSF for a great selection of used parts.
